AN UNEXPECTED MEETING.

Some little time ago the men of the Hip lattalion were disbanded. Having nothing better to do, they thought they would try their hand at a little robbery. So several of them made an attack upon the house of one Liu. What was their surprise to find that the man who confronted them was an old officer of the troops. This romewhat surprised the rob_ bers. The men who were posted outside seeing that some attillerymen were coming, fired off a gun as a signal for decamping. caught! On him were found bombs, revolvers, a sword, some pawn tickets-a tive too. The strangest thing of it all was that with 20 many men about, and troops" too, they only managed to secure one of the tilioves. The one arrested suggested been therestoned by the Viceroy against. Mr William Watson, the poet, who is visiting New York, has emphasised his opinion that present day fiction is worthless. The very best of the novels now being written could be compressed into 500 words, says Mr Watson, without loss. " Novels to-day are a delusion and a snare," Mr Walson explains, "They have taken hold of a people . hich does not yet know, out. what little value there is in such efforts. Indeed, I have come to regard fiction to-day as the coemy of troe literature—the archenemy. Fiolion writing is morely a game; a great game, a tour de force, one might call it. You cannot regard the writing of such novels as we now have thrust upon as an art. Novelists are not artists. They come to an end, as all games do. Our twentitili contury novelate are pointing without the correct model. and had just san up to pull up the rug, when I heard a frightful crash, followed by the sounds of what seemed a terrific wr of crockery. That is a noise frequently heard by travellers, and so I did not attach considerable importance to it, although, had I given a moment's thought to the matter, it must have occurred to me that a ship's china at re does not generally roll about the middle of a fairly calm night. "ALL RANDS ON DECK."

However, my head had barely touched the pillow when the steward's voice was heard outside calling, "All hands on deck!" Slipping my hand under the pillow for the purse containing the greater part of my money, I jumped to the floor, and hastily donned a dressing own, a pair dress trousers and a pair of bouse shippers. Hurrying on to the deck, I was just in time to see the inmates of the first boat, which capsized, struggling in the water, and to assist in loosening some of the lifebuoys: A lascar seized one of them.

FIRE FOOD.

ome Deep Sea Researches.

Every sportsman has his own ideas as to what buff is the most attractive to certain kinds of freeh water fish. It is just possible that he knows very little about their res food; he only knows the lure. When the Mayfly drifts, down the meadows of the river Test, and wanders in fuming little gauzy clouds scross the many threads of the river's flow, there is a good time for the Hampshire people. Mayfly is not the food of the trout; it is a delicnoy that lasts just for a few days in the year, so tha brout gobble it up and gurge themselves in the silliest possible way. Any one who puts an imitation of a Mayfly at the end of his line and runs it skilfully across the surface of the waters is likely to hook a brout that has lost all sense of proportion by sating too much unaccustomed food that is far too rich for his fishy little

Some of us who call ourselves sportsmon, and some others who try to imagine THE COUNT OF LUXEMBOURG. that we are scientists, are well aware that our little puepe into shallow river waters can tell us very little about the food of fishes. You may track a bird to its nest You may watch its flight, see how it wins its food, and what sort of things it brings back to the baby birds. It is a hundred times more difficult to watch the work of the mother fish ill the rivers. They play an a together different game. The fry feed in their own way, and closely as we watch them our work has only a slow result.

To discover how the fish live in the deep sea; how they feed and where they lay their eggs, is one of the most enthralling problems of modern science. Perhaps the best way to appreciate its difficulties is to climb a rocky headland on the west coast of Ireland on some summer svening, when there is no appreciable wind, and watch the long waves roll thunderously beneath you. A bird that crosses from one emg to another leaves a tiny record in your mind, but the swarming life beneath the surface of the water-even a fraction of an inch beneath-is as perfectly hidden away as if it were buried behind volce ic fires

Millions of little tragodiss take place under the wide, grey curtain of the coan surface. Here is one of the simplest codfish has a wide domain of its own. We have been told that by the fishermen who follow it wherever they can. From the European coast all round the northern puts of the Atlantic, Norway, Iceland, Greenland, Newfoundland, it lives in water never more than 120 fathous deep. within 40 miles of the coust, leaves myrinds | fish. of eggs, each having the power to keep affort without the eil-drop supplied by many other fishes, then vanishes back into the depths.

The loss matters very little, for the roe of a female cod sheds many eggs. Three counts made a few years ago on different fish show that one of 23lb weight shed 3,970, 50, one of 2131b 6,652,000, and one of 161b. 2,863,000. There was thus no feer of the race becoming extinct.

MARLY DAYS IN COD LIFE. The little things, with their anuzingly quick morements through the water, that come from these eggs, have every need for Thus the seeming desolate parts of the their agility. They have a food of their own on which they thrive, but they themselves provide a dalightful and natritious fond for their mothers. The story of how the Norwegian investigator Sars found out many things about young cod is one of the most free insting in science. From his little boat be raw a wonderful drama. On May 20, 1867, on s calm day, he saw numbers of cod fry near the surface of the water. Although only a third of an inch in length, they were feeding on very minute crustaceans which awim near the surface. A month later he rowed his boat out amongst them and found thenr growing into a miniatoro of until July, when he found a new habitat' for those of his fry that had excepted the priger of their mothers. We have all seen strange, streaky lines of smooth, oily water across the surface of a ripply sea. Sometimes these are enu-ed by currents of nir, but any good swimmer who wants to investigate them. on a summer afternoon can readily do so by swimming across one of them. He will find that they contain a plentiful supply of jelly fish, and their stinging thread cells will leave him with a painful reminder, of

The baby cod lie underneath the jelly fish, possibly because the nosis of their devouring mothers will be stung if they follow them there. Michael Sars explains it differently. He says : "On June 23 ] found a few of the young cod, but the majority had disappeared. On July 5 found, the little fish sheltering themselves under large jelly fishes: I believe they practised this habit for the sake of the crustacean parasites, specimens of which I In the spawning season it comes somewhere have found in the stomachs of the little

TRE PLANKTON.

Fish cannot live altogether on their viung, but it is difficult to find a vegetarian among t the desizers of the sea. There tre some fisher that live on others that live The mother cod, however, keeps a keen our lower animals, and others again that During the last few years it has been about like a frothy jelly on the surface of recognised that the surface of the sea is the waves, and millions of eggs must be nearly everywhere swarming with minute life, both animal and vegetable, and the name plankton has been given to the living sandy coasts of Newfoundland or the Bay things that are found in it; the things that form the original food for the deep sea fish. Animal plankton is composed of microscopie profez ana, radiolaria, globigerina, and a host of other things. It is mixed up with the eggs and larves of many fish, all of which are living on some smaller vegetable growth. Marcel Herubel compares this drifting fish food to "a vast city full of inhabitante, who are born, live, multiply, and die, and also of passing visitors who come from all parts of the world in their infancy, and roturn thither, as they grow,

COAL PROFFE AND MINERS WAGES

According to A p mphlet called . Profile and wages in the British Coal Trade, To Mr. Tom Pichardson, M.P. and Mr. Walbank, M.C.A. the syers o race paid for the thirteen years from 1898 to 1910 by joint stock colliery companies was $46 per cent. per annum.

O. 6 PER CENT. DIVIDENDS. Mr Charles Duguid, the Einancial Editor of the Daily Mail, asserts that these figures are uncontested.

"Of course," he adds, "there are collieries that do not pay-the compilation itself shows it and doubtless there is much to be said from the coal owners. point of view. But that average dividend of 9.6 per cent, stands unshaken, and rather than in falsely accusing the comnilors of the statement indulging in generalities, plending poverty, and whaking confidence in themselves, the coalowners would be better employed in (1) seeing whether any reasonable demand of the men cannot be met in order to avert the national disaster now upon us ; (2) secing whether they cannot get for themselves some of that huge smount of ceal-trade profit which at present goes into the packet of the middleman; and (3) ultimately devising some profit-sharing (scheme, with the men, such as has had such wonderful effect in the gas industry, which I believe to be the real solution of our labour difficulties."

This pamphlet shows that in one case the average dividend of Bell Brothers, Ltd., of which Sir Hugh Bell is chairman, for thirtuen years has been 28 per cent.

COST OF A TON OF COAL. Sir Hugh Bell sends to the Times an interesting calculation, based on the trading ruturns of Bell Brothers, Ltd.

In one year the company raised 1,124,239 tons of coal, and received, in round figures, &s. 4d. a ton at the pit

"The price realised for a ton of conl was 100d. This was disposed of in the following way :-

Paid in wages to men in the employment of the company ... ... For salarius, and for administrative expenses of a similar character.... For royalty rents ....... For cottage rents, stores, rates and taxes, railway dues on goods delivered to the colliery, and for similar expenses... ... 274d.

"And there remains in the hands of the colliery proprietors 10d.," adds Sir Hugh. " No concorn can safely divide more than between one-half and two-thirds of its gross profits. That is to say, 3d. to 5d. out of the above profits must be reserved for redemption of capital and other similar expenses, which have to be met if a colliery undertaking is to be maintained as a dividend-paying to ......£282,653,220 | concern. There remains, therefore some Assets amount to......£104,068,655 thing between 5d. and 7d."

Mr D. A. Thomas, head of the Cambrian Coal Combine (espital £2,235,000), says in the Dully Mail :-

10,392,032 "The wages in the South Wales coalfield are the highest in the whole of the Old 21,646,528 World. They are to-day 40 per cent 4.48% higher than they were in 1897, showing that the condition of the workmen must be very much better than it was half a generation ago. Nobody will contend that NORTH BRITISH & MERCANTILE the cost of living has increased in anything like the same proportion as the actual cornings of men.

WELSIE COLLIERS' EARNINGS.

"I have before me a list of the average net earnings of the colliers in a number of collieries with the working of which I am closely associated.

"During the last fortnight the average colliers' carnings per day, after payment of the wages of the boys working with them. were :-- ## lindigestion and Catarrh.

Kantish Road, Handsworth, Birmingham. Dear Sirs, -1t is now about five years since Angier's Emulsion was recommended to me by a doctor, and I have found it invaluable for indigestion, and stomach catairh, as well as for toning up the system. I was very much run down when I first took it, but improved immediately, and gained in weight 15 lb in twelve weeks. I have recommended the Emulsion to several of my friends for various complaints, with good results. It proved especially good for a friend who suffers from inflammation of the bowels, who was completely cured, and has been at membrane of the stomach and intestines, arrests fermentation, checks bacterial growth and promotes normal, healthy action of the bowels. It is a splendid tonic to appetits and digestion, and it builds up health and strength. Doctors prescribe it for chronic indigestion, nervous dyspepsia. stomach and intestinal catarrh, gastric nicer, etc. It has cured many obscure cases after other remedies had failed Angier's Emuision is invaluable in all eatarrhal affections, whether of throat, lungs, stomach or intestines.

Government were compelled to take the present course in order to maintain their precarious hold on power. It

[Corynight.] RULE DEBATE

SIR EDWARD CARSON'S INDICTMENT. 482

(Reuter's Service to the China Mail.) LONDON, April 12.

During" the debate on the Home Rule Bill in the House of Commons, Bir E, Carson denounced the proposals of the Bill as ridiculous and fantastic, and said the so-called safeguards were delusions. Was Mr Asquith going to the windows. embrit the Bill to the country? Or, would he assert that the Bill had been before the country & He ridiculed the enprosed safeguard of the supremacy of -the Imporial Parliament as a mere palliative for members with some conscience left, and vigorously attacked the Government for introducing the measure while the Constitution was suspended by leaving the preamble of the Parliament Act still in aboyance. So long as the Government had a majority independent of the Irish Maine Republican Convention nothing was heard of Home Rule. "It is our plain duty," declared Sir Edward, "to oppose the Bill with all the energy -we can. We believe it an unnecessary Bill, fatal to both countries, and we regard it as the outcome of the greatest series of dishonourable "transactions which has ever disgraced any country."

LABOUR AND IRISH SUPPORT.

Mr Ramsay Macdonald approved the

Mr Redmond heartily approved the measure. It was idle, he said, to tell the House that the safeguards were uscless. "From a financial point of Tiew along the Bill ought to commend itself to Englishmen. Speaking also in London, and is now selling at from for his colleagues, he declared that this 30/- to 35/- per ton. was a great measure and one adequate to carry out the objects of its promoters, and they welcomed it. The Bill would be submitted to the Irish National Convention and he unhesitatingly urged the Convention to accept it. 4 Mr O'Brien, while reserving judgment on the details, approved the Bill generally and appealed to Ulster Unionists to accept it as an honourable settlement of the Irish question.

LOBBY OPINION.

The feature of the debate was the sbence of passion and excitement, wires that the mistake in announcing which is interpreted by the Liberals as the death of the Pope was due to an' betokening that the controversy has employee in the Nunciature receiving a - passed from the heroic to the practical telegram announcing the death of his stage. forals as most inspiring to the Party. It is pointed out that there are no signs of the formation of "caves." Sir who discovered the mistake. "Clifford Cory, M.P. for St. Ives, is the only Liberal opponent. Two other members of the party are doubtful. Otherwise the party is unanimous, despite some criticism of the nominated Senate proposal. It is expected, however, that this may be amended in the course of the debate. Some advocate the election of Senators and proportional representation.

.The attitude of the Unionists is -frankly irreconcilable. They are delighted, with Sir Edward Carson's speech, which they consider is alone sufficient to smash the Bill. They conalder the Bill unworkable, and sarcasti. cally describe the measure as establishing "Freedom under Police supervision." The finance of the Bill is condemed as unintelligible, and Unionists are confident that the Bill will swell the rising tide of anti-gov. ernment feeling in Great Britain. Some members analyse the South African constitution to prove that there is no analogy with Ireland.

BILL SEVERELY CRITICISED.

Most severe criticisms are being passed on the Home Rule Bill. the critics dwelling on the composition of the Senate and the inadequacy of the Plain, there will be a provisional naval enfeguarde. It is pointed out that the Senate is firstly nominated by a Government dependent upon the Nationalists. and ululuately by an Irish Executive hydro-aeroplanes. in an Irish House of Commons where the Nationalists will have a formidable majority.

The man who was arrested for firing choosing their delegates. Taft's sup- a revolver in the House of Commons on February 26th last night attempted suicide with a revolver, inflicting serious wound in his head.

His wife was found with her throat

Note-The man referred to in the telegram is named Samuel Henry, and describes himself as a licensed preacher, north. of Moreton Ledge, Leominster. On the evening of Feb. 26th he discharged a revolver in the Central Hall of the House of Commons, causing great consternation among members and the crowd of visitors. in the lobbies. Prior to the incident he 'had been sitting in the hall about three hours, and the strangeness of his behaviour had attracted attention. As he was being removed he shouted an incoherent statement to the effect that he was the Messiah. It is understood that for some time previously he had been suffering from hallucinations. On being taken into custody the man described himself as a licensed preacher, and stated that the resson for his action was that the Government was suppressing the teaching of Tolstoy on the Messish. He also declared at Cannon-row Police Station that he came to London specially to see the Prime Minister, and that he discharged the revolver to call attention to grievance. At Bow Street Police Court police evidence was given to the effect that. when saked why he fired to revolver, accused replied. " To bring my case to the front." On being asked what his case was accused said "I have written a book called "Tolstoy the Messial," which the Government has suppressed. I had so intention of hurting any one." He was subsequently semanded for his mental state to be enquired into. - Ep. O. M.]

SUDDEN DEATH OFIME. MORGAN PHILLIPS.

्राप्त्रक प्रदेश के विकास के किया है। जिस्सी के की अपने के किया है। Mr Morgan Phillips, the well-known barrister, succumbed to angina pectorie, from which he has long suffered, at Shanghai on April 5th, being found dead in bed by air boy in the early morning. A book lay at his side as if death has summoned him as he read. From the It is probable that the outrage is N. C. Dolly News we learn that Mr Phillips had only recently returned from a trip home and was making preparations to receive his wife and children by the incoming N. D. L. steamer Kloist.

Educated privately, Mr Phillips, who was 59 years of ago, matriculated at Trinity Hall, Cambridge, and was called to the Bar, Middle Temple, in June, 1883. For some years he followed his profession as a barrister on the South Wales circuit and. arriving in Shanghai in June, 1898, joined the office of Mr W. V. Drummond, and was shortly afterwards admitted as a parmer to the firm of Dougmond, Phillips and White-Cooper. After three years practice in Shanghai, during which he gained great respect as an advocate and equal populari y in sporting circles, he proceeded to Tientsin and thence to Hongkong, where is practised at the Bar from December, 1901. until Nevember, 1835 Returning to Shanghai more than eight years ago, he rejoined his former partners and had since been ever prominent as an advocate in the British Courts, the Court of Counts, and the Mixed Court.
